

Laudato Si On Care for Our Common Home

The Beauty of God's Creation

In June, 2015, Pope Francis gave the world the first encyclical ever written on the environment. He titled his work, The Laudato Si, On Care for Our Common Home.

Laudato Si is a Latin term which means, Praise be to you, my Lord and was taken from a canticle written by St. Francis of Assisi, the Holy Father's patron saint. During this school year, the monthly resources will focus on Laudato Si and practical ways to live out this most important message of Pope Francis.

Who is Pope Francis?

Jorge Mario Bergoglio was born in Buenos Aires, Argentina, on December 17, 1936, to Italian immigrants. As a young man, due to serious infection, he had a part of one of his lungs removed. He graduated from a technical school as a chemical technician before beginning training at the Diocesan Seminary. He is a member of a religious community of men called Jesuits. When Jorge Mario Bergoglio was a bishop, prior to his election as Pope in 2013, he loved to ride the bus and to be among the people in his Archdiocese of Buenos Aires, Argentina, South America. In 2013 he was named the 266th pope of the Roman Catholic Church. Bergoglio, the first pope from the Americas, took his papal title from Saint Francis of Assisi of Italy. He is the first citizen from the Americas, the first non-European and first Jesuit priest to be named pope. A primary reason that he chose his patron saint was Saint Francis' love for those who are poor, vulnerable and oppressed. He also wanted to follow Saint Francis' example of care for creation and his closeness to all living creatures. St. Francis was born in 1141 in Assisi, Italy into a wealthy family. St. Francis abandoned a life of luxury after hearing God's voice to "rebuild his Church" and live in poverty. He devoted his life to the poor, vulnerable and all creatures of the world. Pope Benedict XVI named him the patron saint for ecologists.

Pope Francis is an excellent modern day example as one who shows that our personal peace is connected to the care and concern of God's creation and all who live in this world. He is admired throughout the world as a great and holy man who lives without special privilege. When elected Pope, he chose a simple place to live and a simple car to drive. He chose to walk outside among the people and continue to take care of those who are poor. This dedication earned him the title of Person of the Year by Time magazine in December 2013.

Pope Francis gives us hope for the future of this world as he tells us that through the grace of God we have the ability to take care of our common home and all its inhabitants.

What is an encyclical?

An encyclical is a letter usually written by a Pope to a particular audience of Bishops. Pope Francis said this encyclical was not only written to the bishops of the world and not even just to Catholics but to all people of the world. He said the issue of care for creation is too important to write to only some people when all people are needed to do something about caring for creation today.

What does “Laudato Si” mean in English?

Laudato Si are the first two words of the Canticle of Creation, a prayer written by Saint Francis of Assisi. The literal translation from the original Umbrian language is “praise be.” Umbrian is an ancient Italian dialect. In relationship to the encyclical, the official Vatican translation is ‘praise be to you, my Lord.’
